

FAIL IN EFFORT TO BREAK DOWN ROSE TESTIMONY

Martin T. Manton for Former Police Officer Becker Tries to Discredit Witness

BECKER GRAVE AS ATTACK FAILS

Worried as He Sees Unshaken Attitude of Man Whose Tale May Spell Death

MOSTLY ATTACK ON GAMBLER

Attempt to Discredit Witness Is Mainly Personal Onslaught on His Record

BY FRED J. WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, May 13.—Slashing, thrusting and slapping with keen invective, battering with alleged facts, Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for Charles Becker, fought today to save his client from the chair by a bitter attack on "Bald Jack" Rose, chief witness for the state in Becker's second trial for the murder of gambler Herman Rosenthal.

Rose untouched
The attack was averted at every point. Rose, slim, collected, calm, sank back in his chair after each onslaught, untouched, untrapped.

Furious attack was met by apparently unmoved calm. In the first hour of his cross-examination, Rose resisted every effort to entangle him and Becker, leaning over his counsel's table, looked grave as he saw the unshaken attitude of the man whose story may send the ex-police lieutenant to his death.

"Rose, you were a Jew at the time of the last trial, weren't you?" was Manton's opening thrust.

"Yes," came the cheery monotone from the witness.

"Your true name is Jacob Rosenzweig, isn't it?"

"Yes."

Whitman Objects
"How long have you been masquerading under the name of Jack Rose?"

Whitman objected vigorously and the question finally was allowed in another form.

"I have been known as Jack Rose for five years," Rose answered calmly, when the legal squabble was over. His voice fairly crackling with aggressiveness, Manton then attacked Rose's record as a denizen of the underworld, accusing him as a pandeer, a white slaver, a police stool pigeon, a ruler of young girls, and a Pagan who taught boys to steal and gamble.

Referring to Rose's testimony about conversations with Becker concerning incidents in connection with the request of "Big Jack" Zelek, Manton demanded of the witness if he had not introduced matters into his testimony yesterday to meet objections made to his earlier story by the court of appeals.

Whitman objected and was sustained by Justice Seabury.

Manton then brought Harry Co-

MELLEN REVEALS NEW HAVEN STORY HE WILL DIVULGE

Former President of New England Road Spends Night with His Attorney

WILL TELL IT ON THE STAND

Solicitor Folk Says Mellen Will Be Thousand Times More Valuable as Witness Than Defendant

WILSON REFUSES TO INTERFERE

Attorney General McReynolds' Attempt to Prevent Testimony Is Withdrawn

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Complete exposure of the New Haven railroad's financing was decided upon this afternoon. Beginning tomorrow with former President Mellen as the chief witness, the interstate commerce commission will uncover every deal in which stockholders are said to have lost ten million dollars by "high finance."

Attorney General McReynolds announced he would not interfere and that he would not carry his objections to the probe to President Wilson.

Solicitor Folk declared: "We are going right ahead. We want the whole truth, no matter who it hits or who it hurts."

Examines Mellen.

Events came thick and fast today. For four hours in a midnight conference Folk examined Mellen privately and announced the ex-president of the New Haven would take the stand tomorrow to be followed by William Rockefeller and George F. Baker. Then United States Marshal Henkle wired from Jekyll Island that he was unable to find Rockefeller.

A conference held at Attorney General McReynolds' office, attended by Folk, Commissioner McChord, Senators Norris and Kern, and the attorney general, broke up discordantly. Announcement that nothing would now stop a complete unearthing of the New Haven's deals followed. Norris declared Commissioner McChord and Folk left McReynolds' office "because the attorney general practically requested them."

Talked Until Dawn

In the darkest hours, after midnight today, the inside story of the New Haven railway's "high finance" was revealed by Charles Mellen in a secret conference with Folk. Mellen's interrogation continued until 2 a. m.

"Further than that I examined Mr. Mellen until nearly dawn today. I can say nothing," Folk said. "He told me the whole story and he will tell it on the stand tomorrow."

In announcing the surprising exposure of Mellen, Folk made the following statement:

Story More Valuable

"It is not a question of immunity but of whether the truth shall be suppressed. Mellen, as a witness telling the truth, would be a thousand times more valuable to the public than Mellen could possibly be as a defendant."

"The great question before the American people today is to secure honesty in the management of the railway systems of the country. The revelations already brought to light in this investigation and the further disclosures that Mr. Mellen and other witnesses can make should be of immense value, and result in legislation that will cause it to be just as grave a crime to plunder the public through a corporation as it is now to rob an individual."

Some time today, Solicitor Folk declared, a resolution affecting the examination of Mellen would be introduced in the senate. It was apparent from today's events that President Wilson refused to interfere at Attorney General McReynolds' request in the controversy between the department of justice and the interstate commerce commission.

Call Directors

Folk subsequently announced that Mellen would take the stand at ten o'clock tomorrow morning and that former directors of the New Haven were subpoenaed for next Monday. These men, he said, are William Rockefeller, George F. Baker, George McCulloch Miller, Samuel Morehouse and Lewis Cass Ledyard.

Today's meeting was then adjourned.

Attorney General McReynolds will make no further attempt to prevent the placing of President Mellen on the witness stand, before the interstate commerce commission, he announced today.

F. P. HIXON TAKES PLACE ON RESERVE DIRECTORATE TODAY

La Crosse Man Agrees to Accept Position for which He Has Been Urged by Bankers

COMMITTEE RULING IS CHANGED

Organization Board Explains He Can Retain Stock in Banks Within the District

LOCAL BANKERS ARE GRATIFIED

Wing and Burton Express Pleasure Over Change in Rules and Acceptance of Business Man

Mr. Frank P. Hixon will accept the business membership on the board of directors of the federal reserve bank for this region.

Positive announcement was made by him today following the receipt from the secretary of the federal reserve organization of a ruling to the effect that he will not have to relinquish his holdings in any of the banks in which he is a stockholder.

The original ruling of the organization committee was that no member of the Class B directors (business men) "shall be stockholders, officers or directors in any of the banks within the district which they represent."

That portion of the ruling relating to stockholders contradicted the law, in the opinion of leading bankers and attorneys and that the organization committee so decided is indicated by letters received by local bankers today.

The ruling should read, the letter says, "that no reserve director shall be an officer, director or EMPLOYEE of any bank."

Urged in Minneapolis

"The new ruling conforms with the law," said Mr. Hixon this afternoon, "and I will accept the place."

Mr. Hixon was first urged for a place on the reserve directorate at a preliminary meeting of the banks within this region held in Minneapolis several weeks ago, the news of which was first printed in The Tribune.

It was feared that he would be unable to accept, the original ruling of the organization committee making it imperative that he relinquish his holdings in local banks, resign as vice president and director of the National bank and the La Crosse Trust company and dispose of his stock in the Securities National of Minneapolis.

Bankers Pleased

Both E. M. Wing, vice president of the Batavian National bank, and George W. Burton, president of the National bank of La Crosse, today expressed gratification over the new ruling and Mr. Hixon's acceptance.

CLUB WOMEN ACT ON POLICE MATRON PLAN

At a meeting of the Twentieth Century club yesterday further steps were taken to support the plan to secure the appointment of a police matron for La Crosse.

A letter from Mrs. G. H. Hill, police matron of Davenport, Ia., directed to Mayor Sorensen, was read. Mrs. Hill was obliged to decline an invitation to come to La Crosse and address the city council with relation to her work, but in her letter she set forth its advantages in a convincing way.

Mrs. Hill verifies the content that a police matron can work in harmony with the police and perform services which it is impossible for a man to accomplish.

THINK SILLIMAN STILL IN PRISON

Fellow Prisoners of Consul Arrive at Vera Cruz and Say He Was Not Released

LESS THAN 200 LEFT IN MEXICO

Only Americans Now Remaining Said to Be Those Who Have Married and Settled in Republic

By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

VERA CRUZ, May 13.—There was great doubt in the minds of Americans here today whether United States Consul John R. Silliman, a classmate of President Wilson, has really been released from prison in Saltillo as reported from Mexico City.

Consul Canada here received word from the Brazilian minister in the capital, that General Huerta had informed him Silliman had been set at liberty. He said the consul would be aided in reaching Mexico City and from there sent to Puerto Mexico. A dozen Americans with their families, who were imprisoned with Silliman, have reached Vera Cruz, and they declare that so far as they know the American consul is still in jail.

The Americans reaching here declared that they were imprisoned for fifteen days with the classmate of the president. Silliman was held incommunicado. Even the British vice consul was not permitted to see him.

All of the Americans jailed by Mexicans suffered the greatest hardships. They declared that before the release came, Silliman begged them to make every effort to spread the news of his imprisonment so that steps might be taken to obtain his freedom. Mrs. Silliman was living at the British consulate, the refugees said, but was not permitted to see her husband.

Wilbur Bonney, American vice consul at San Luis Potosi, narrowly escaped arrest at the hands of Mexicans in that city, the American refugees said. Bonney fled and is now hiding in the home of a friendly Mexican near Saltillo.

It was estimated here today that as a result of the wholesale departure of refugees during the past three weeks there are now only about 200 Americans remaining in all Mexico. Most of these have married Mexicans and now regard the country as their home.

Archbishop Mora del Rio, head of the Catholic church in Mexico, expects shortly to sail from Vera Cruz for Rome with the bishop of Saltillo, who arrived with him yesterday. The archbishop left the capital secretly, but he denied he was fleeing from the wrath of Huerta. Archbishop Mora is said to have made several attempts to persuade Huerta to resign.

PAROLES NEXT WEEK

MADISON, Wis., May 13.—The board of control will meet next week to hear petitions for parole.

CHICAGO HONORS VERA CRUZ HERO

"Sammy" Meisenberg came home today. Ten thousand persons gathered at the station to do him honor, and all Chicago paid tribute to the little marine who lost his life in the American occupation of Vera Cruz.

The body arrived in a special car at 11:45 a. m. The coffin was draped with the American flag and buried beneath a mound of flowers. To this floral display Judge Thomas Scully added a wreath six feet in diameter, the gift of the city.

Members of the city council and other officials filed past the coffin when it was laid in state in the city hall.

They were followed by hundreds of citizens. Flags on the schools and other public buildings will be at half-mast all today and tomorrow, when the burial will take place. Meisenberg enlisted under the name of Martin.

From this part of the verdict Shaffer was entitled to 33 cents as he claimed that two-thirds of the tree was on his land and he will receive two-thirds of the value of the tree minus the expense of cutting.

The jury, however, allowed him $12.50 for damages to the maple tree and $4 damages to the stepping block, caused by the falling of the cottonwood.

'Twas A HE TREE

SCHOLL MUST PAY
Jury Holds that Schaffer Lost $16.83 When Male Cottonwood Went Down

The tree standing on the line between the land owned by Henry M. Schaffer and Earle Scholl, near Seventh and Vine streets, which was cut down at the order of Scholl, was a male cottonwood tree, and Scholl will have to pay $16.83 damages. The jury after being out four hours, returned a special verdict this afternoon.

According to the evidence a cottonwood tree, two-thirds of which was on Henry Schaffer's land and one-third on Scholl's land, was cut down in December. Scholl ordered the tree cut down without the consent of Schaffer. Schaffer sued for damages, claiming a loss of the tree as being of shade value, damage to another tree in falling, and damage to a stepping block.

The defense was that the tree was a constant source of danger to pedestrians and was a female cottonwood tree, which is prohibited by ordinance.

TO SUBMIT TWO PROPOSITIONS ON MARKET TONIGHT

Committee Will Read Report of Investigations and Recommend Choice of One of Two Plans

FIRST PROVIDES FOR REST ROOMS

Would Be Installed at Cost of $2,000 and a Market Master Would Be Employed at $1,800

SECOND PLAN NEEDS LESS MONEY

Would Improve Sheds with Expenditure of Approximately $500 and Employ Buyer and Seller

Two plans for a city market will be submitted to the Retail Merchants' association at its meeting tonight by the committee named to investigate the feasibility of the various plans proposed.

The committee will render a report on its investigation of the various proposals and the propositions put up to the board as the best and most feasible are as follows:

1.—To install rest rooms equipped with toilets and all modern conveniences at a cost of about $2,000 and to employ a market master at an annual salary of $1,800. To make it the work of the market master to post conspicuously all prices on a bulletin board to be installed for that purpose.

2.—To repair the present sheds at a cost of approximately $500 and employ a market master at a salary to be decided upon later and to furnish him with an office.

The committee, it is understood, will not recommend the adoption of either of the two plans, but will let the entire association act on them.

The plans vary chiefly in that the second will call for but slight initial expense while the former will call for an outlay of at least $3,800.

The meeting tonight will be called at 8 o'clock in Linker hall, corner Fourth and Main streets.

The committee which has been investigating the marketing proposition consists of J. J. Felber, O. J. Oyen, V. Tausche, J. H. Furber, Joseph Arenz and Harry Taggart.

PROMOTER IS HERE

J. J. Fishburn, who is interested in bringing the aluminum factory to La Crosse, has arranged for a meeting in the near future of men interested in the matter. Mr. Fishburn arrived in the city yesterday, and has since been conferring with several La Crosse business men on the subject. Mr. Fishburn is anxious to bring the factory to La Crosse, as he thinks that among other advantages La Crosse offers better and cheaper power for the concern.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The American death roll at Vera Cruz was swelled to twenty today. The latest victim, Private Maurice Welsh, Company A, 19th infantry, fell from a roof in the city yesterday. General Funston notified Secretary Garrison that the private's death was in the line of duty.

U. S. Explains Intentions to Mediators and Huerta May Break Negotiations as Result

WASHINGTON, May 13.—That Tampico was likely to fall today was the news Admiral Mayo today wirelessly the navy department.

This report, supplementing one received earlier in the day, declared that heavy firing had continued since midnight after a lull beginning at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mayo said the rebels confidently expected to capture the city today and added that the general impression "seems to be that their expectations will be realized."

Consul Agent Payne at Tuxpan, who is also agent of the oil fields of a Mexico company, said after a visit to Secretary Bryan that if the prediction of Tampico's fall proves true, Tuxpan, 70 miles distant, will also capitulate by Saturday.

The charge that both the federal and constitutional forces at Tampico have broken faith with this government by damaging foreign oil properties was made to President Wilson today. An emphatic demand for proper protection was lodged.

A committee headed by Richmond Levering of New York city leveraging resolutions approved by every American company doing business in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Stirred to action by continued reports that Private Parks was tortured and executed by Mexican federalists, both the war and state departments today took steps to ascertain the truth.

Secretary Garrison instructed Gen. Funston to get information from Gen. Maas regarding the orderly's fate. Simultaneously the state department asked the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to obtain similar information from Huerta.

General Funston believes Parks has been executed. Secretary Garrison, however, today wished to give the benefit of the doubt to the Mexican federal forces. If the federalists had merely jailed Parks, the war department would not have regarded it as extraordinary. They hold Funston would do likewise if a Mexican soldier rode into the American lines.

Secretary Garrison made it very clear today that drastic steps will be taken if the report of Parks' torture and death are confirmed.

"If they are true, then we will take the next step. If he was tortured it was an act of barbarism, whether war was on or not. We do not want to make any mis-steps in a delicate situation. We do not want to inflame the country. Consequently in all we have done thus far is to ask information, for we feel that the initial responsibility lies with the private for deserting his command. Of course, we feel that he must have been insane, but we have no proof of the reason for his departure."

Won't Keep Lobos

The United States has no intention of retaining possession of Lobos island. The navy department, however, insists that it cannot surrender the island, as the Mexicans will not agree to keep the light burning. This is the last word sent Huerta through the A. B. C. mediators. The dictator will have to decide whether this explanation is sufficient or whether he will withdraw from the mediation discussions.

Mediators With U. S.
The Lobos island incident is not expected to crop up again. The mediators, it is said on good authority, realize that the island light is absolutely essential to navigation. They have notified the Huerta government unless it can show that the Americans ejected the lightkeepers by force, the contention that the occupancy was an act of aggression is without foundation.

The mediators for the first time today confirmed United Press dispatches of last week that they have completed a general plan of settlement dealing with the entire Mexican situation, which provides for elimination of Huerta and establishment of a provisional government in which all factions may be represented.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How Clever Little Sallie Kept Cool.

It had been a very warm day—almost summery—and it reminded daddy of the story of a little girl named Sallie.

"Sally," began daddy, "one warm day wondered what she could do to get cool. Her mother had told her she mustn't take off her coat, and Sally was, oh, so warm! She was playing with her dolls."

"Did she have many?" inquired Evelyn.

"Yes," replied daddy, "she had a great many and of all varieties. She had rag dolls, china dolls and dolls that were stuffed with sawdust."

"She talked to her dolls and asked them if they felt warm, and they agreed with her that it was a very, very warm day—much too warm for early spring. But then they didn't really know what they could do about it, for they were only dolls and hadn't much influence over the weather man. So a bright idea came to Sally."

"I know what I'll do. I've never given myself a make believe name for playing. But now I'll call myself Mrs. Cucumber-Green. Doesn't that sound delightfully cool?" she said.

"The dolls looked as if they thought it was a wonderful name, and Sally said that she would call them the Cucumber-Green children."

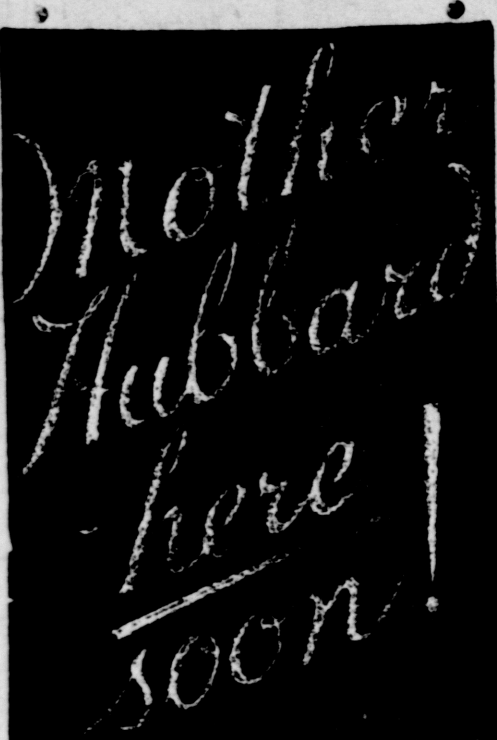

"Sally decided it was a very lucky thing on her part to have thought of that name before the hot summer came, for she had a fine cool name for the long summer, and it did make playing so much nicer to have a pretend name."

"She thought she would call her dolls extra names for the very hottest days. One she called Silver Brook Cucumber-Green, another she called Mossy Dell Cucumber-Green, another Woodland-Stream Cucumber-Green, and yet another she called Cool Breeze Cucumber-Green."

"She was quite delighted with the new names. Of course on the ordinary days they would be called by their ordinary names, but for the very hot days these cool names would be just the thing. And Sally was very glad there had been a warm spring day, for it had made her think of arranging all this before the summer, for, as you may be able to guess, Sally didn't like the intense heat. But now she knew she would not be bothered by it, thanks to her new name of Mrs. Cucumber-Green."

"She was sure, now, that she would not suffer so with the heat, for all she would have to do would be to say the lovely cool names, for so much of it was thinking about it, she decided."

"For hadn't she played the whole afternoon and been perfectly happy, although she still had on her warm winter coat? She had forgotten all about it."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

The Delbridge Dilemma

By PETER DANE

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Frank Delbridge opened the letter and read it with eyes that slowly widened with surprise. Suddenly he tossed it into his wife's lap.

"Read that, Jean."

Mrs. Delbridge scanned the typewritten lines and her cheeks grew pink.

"Dear Sir," it read. "We are enclosing a copy of the last will and testament of your great-aunt, the late Miss Sarepta Delbridge. As you may remember, when Miss Delbridge died two months ago no will could be found, but our Mr. Simpkins, who has just returned from an extended trip abroad, recalls that he drew up a will for Miss Delbridge before his departure, and a search of our vaults has resulted in its discovery today. You will note that the principal clause in this will affects you very closely. Please call at our offices at an early date and confer with us concerning your compliance with the rather singular demands of your aunt. Faithfully yours,

"Bond & Search, Attorneys-at-Law."

Jean looked up with sparkling eyes.

"Oh, Frank, isn't it lovely of your Aunt Sarepta? Of course you will agree to any conditions she has made."

Frank held up his hand. "It's too late, honey," he said dismally. "We have lost $50,000!"

"Fifty thousand dollars?" echoed Jean, turning pale. "What do you mean, Frank?"

Frank looked up from the will which he had been reading.

"My Aunt Sarepta left me the sum of $50,000 in cash, provided that I married the granddaughter of an old sweetheart of hers! If I fail to carry out her wishes, the dollars go to the girl. What luck!"

Jean began to cry.

"What is the matter, dear?" he asked, coming over to comfort her. "Never mind about it—we've been as happy as crickets on my twelve hundred a year, and we will continue so."

Jean lifted a tearful face. "I'm afraid you'll regret having married me, Frank. If it wasn't for me you would have $50,000, and now I am afraid that you will look on me as a sort of barrier between you and a fortune!"

Frank threw back his head and laughed.

"A barrier, indeed!" he jibed. "A hedge, call it, a hedge of sweet-smelling pink roses—with now and then a prickly thorn! My bonny Jean, do you really believe that I would marry Aunt Sarepta's old sweetheart's granddaughter?—eye gods, what a far-fetched connection—because if you do you are mistaken."

"I shall always be jealous of her," smiled Frank through his teeth.

"Of course," grinned Frank.

"What is her name?"

"Blessed if I know!" Frank picked up the will and scanned it frowningly. "She doesn't mention any names save that the name of the old lover as well as that of the granddaughter are contained in a sealed envelope in the care of Mr. Simpkins, silent partner of the law firm of Bond & Search. She says that Mr. Simpkins will arrange so that I may be introduced to the young woman. It's rather a cold-blooded proposition to come from such a sentimental woman as Aunt Sarepta has proved herself to be by this will."

"Well, it's too late to mend matters now," sighed Jean. "If we were not married there would be no dilemma; all you would have to do would be to go to Mr. Simpkins, meet the charming girl, marry her and be happy ever after with your horrid old $50,000."

"I'm glad it didn't happen until after I met you!" smiled Frank. "The will was drawn long before I met you—and you know Aunt Sarepta was feeble-minded for a year before she died—so she never knew you."

"Frank, can you really say you are glad?" Jean looked straight into his gaze and presently their lips met.

"Now, I'm going to write to Bond & Search and tell them that Miss What's-Her-Name will be the richer by $50,000."

This happened at breakfast time. That same night when Frank Delbridge reached his little apartment in the Bronx, he was disappointed to find the rooms in darkness. Ever since their marriage, several months before, Jean had always met him at the hall door, radiant with delight.

He went through the rooms snoring on the electric lights until he reached the bedroom. Here he was startled to find a note conspicuously placed on the pin cushion.

His finger shook when he opened it.

Darling Husband—I've been thinking about Aunt Sarepta's will all day—and I have resolved that I cannot come between you and your fortune. So I am going to leave you free to marry that girl—and I hope she isn't a bit pretty. I know I'm horrid, but my heart is breaking. JEAN.

Frank shed the tears from his eyes and smiled tenderly. "My barrier of roses—with the jealous prickles there! My bonny Jean, you are worth a thousand fortunes to me!"

He left the house and took a subway train to Brooklyn where Jean's sister lived. He was quite sure that Mrs. Prescott would be the first one that Jean would think of.

Mrs. Prescott met him, her fair face puckered with anxiety.

"Do tell me what is the matter with Jean," she urged.

Frank related the events of the morning and then demanded to see his wife.

It was a sorry-looking Jean who came down stairs and stumbled into his arms with a happy sob of relief.

"Do you really prefer me to the fortune?" she asked.

"Would I have come after you otherwise?"

Frank took his wife home again, and they settled down to their happy life as it had been before the advent of the lawyer's letter had darkened the horizon of their contentment.

One day Frank came home, pale and worried. "I'm sorry, dear," he said, "but they've reduced expenses at the office, and I'm going to be dropped on the first of the month." Jean turned a smiling face toward this misfortune. She drew a cheerful picture of long lines of prospective employers, all eager to secure the services of such an expert accountant as Mr. Frank Delbridge, and she promised to study the advertisements in the daily papers and clip those that she thought her husband might condescend to fill.

"I shall begin tonight," she said, when the dinner dishes had been cleared away and they were sitting in the little living room. "Where is the paper?"

Frank took it from his overcoat pocket, and soon Jean was knitting her brow over the columns of "Help Wanted."

Presently her gaze wandered to the next column, marked "Persons." One advertisement arrested her attention.

"Wanted—Information concerning the present whereabouts of Miss Jean Delorme, late of Montreal."

"Frank!" she shrieked. "What can this mean? Listen!" and she read the advertisement aloud to him. "Why are they advertising for me?" she asked, dazedly.

"Search me!" returned Frank, drawing the telephone toward him. "I'll find Simpkins's house, and if he's home and I'll find out."

Jean watched Frank's face as he talked over the wire. Changing expressions flitted across it. Curiosity, amusement, incredulity, and then delight. Then Frank's deep tones: "Why, I married Jean Delorme last summer, Mr. Simpkins," he chuckled. "Yes—we will call in the morning. Thank you; yes, it is a small world. Good-by."

He turned a mischievous face around to his wife.

"I can't get rid of that fifty thousand—or the wife that Aunt Sarepta wished on me! And I don't want to! It seems that Aunt Sarepta's old lover's name was Peter Delorme and—"

"My Grandfather Delorme!" cried Jean excitedly, "and I am really the girl Aunt Sarepta wanted you to marry!"

"None other. I can't help thinking that things work out all right in this world, no matter how much we fuss over them."

"Yes," nodded Jean, slipping her hand into his; "and it's lovely that Aunt Sarepta knows now that out of all the world we chose each other. Perhaps she and Grandfather Delorme are young again—over there—and understand!"

A SAFE AND SOUND SELECTION

La Crosse business men will approve the selection of C. S. Van Auken to succeed John L. Utermoehl, resigned, as secretary of the board of trade. Mr. Van Auken will bring to the office the assistance of mature experience; he has the confidence and good will of men in all lines of business; he is accustomed to meet big men in important dealings, and he is blessed with a fund of common sense and the habit of application. One may recognize genuine merit of various kinds in other applicants for the place and still feel that, measured from every angle, Mr.
Van Auken presents the best all-around choice that could have been made.

FREAR BEGINS AN IMPORTANT FIGHT

In the adjoining column appears an editorial from the Washington Times discussing a speech in congress in which Representative James
A. Frear, Wisconsin, pays his respects to what is without a doubt the most stupendous waste of funds ever permitted by the United States government. It deserves careful reading.

Outside government circles we doubt if a finger can be laid upon a man in the whole length of the river who does not realize the utter profligacy and uselessness of our present system of river "improvements." One would think that steamboat men, who if any are the beneficiaries of the outlay, would support the government, but as a class rivermen are the most outspoken in their condemnation of the system that is being pursued.

It is typical of American apathy that, while they almost universally condemn the thing, the people of the Mississippi valley have taken no part in any public protest against the extravagance.

The beginning of a movement for the overthrow of the present system of waste was made several years ago by Judge Ray S. Reid, who, following an investigation as waterway commissioner of Wisconsin, emphatically condemned the expenditures and set forth plans for the resurrection of the river as an avenue of commerce by the adoption of the practical European tow-boat system.

Just for that, the interests got to work in the legislature and strangled the upstart by abolishing the office of waterway commissioner.

Nothing daunted, Judge Reid went to Washington and got through congress an appropriation of $500,000 to try out the European system. Again the friends of the wing-dam channel shifters got busy, and by blocking the action necessary to effectuate the experiment, have held it in check for the intervening five years.

This bit of history may advise Congressman Frear of the obstinate opposition his plans will encounter,
but he has begun a good fight and it is to be hoped that he will persevere to the end. Should he succeed in securing the adoption of the economical and advantageous Reid program, and then turn the hundreds of millions now wasted on a trafficless river into the building of a system of national highways, he will "deserve well of his country."

MR. HIXON EMINENTLY FITTED FOR POST

It will be gratifying to La Crosse people if eventually the interpretation of the new banking law shall permit Frank P. Hixon to accept the proffered post of business man member of the Federal Reserve Bank board.

The office is an important one,
and it will be advantageous to La Crosse banking interests, and thus indirectly to the community, to have a representative upon the board.

However, upon this not disinterested ground alone it would not be patriotic to urge a La Crosse man, and happily, La Crosse has a broader and more public spirited basis for its presentation of Mr. Hixon's name.

Mr. Hixon enjoys a well-earned reputation as a broad, successful and reliable operator in the more important field of business. Not only is he trained in general business operations, with a genius for management, but he is intimately familiar with banking affairs and has displayed notable talent for the profession.
Indeed, it is no exaggeration to say that he is the outstanding figure in business circles in Western Wisconsin.

With these facts as a basis, the fortunate circumstance that Mr. Hix-on has been in sympathy with the purposes of the new banking law which he may be called upon to help administer affords the soundest of reasons for believing that he is qualified to give eminently satisfactory services as a member of the reserve board of directors.

"That stupid salesman tried to get me to buy a fur with two heads. I cannot tolerate the unnatural in anything. Who ever heard of an animal with two heads?"

Her sister looked critically at the scarf. Then a smile of amusement lit up her face. "Yes," she remarked, "you didn't buy a fur with two heads, but you have bought one with thirteen tails."

The shortest mile in European countries is the Russian verst, which is

The Frear Resolution

(From the Washington Times.)

Congressman Frear of Wisconsin, on March 26, delivered a remarkable speech in the house. The river and harbor bill was his subject, and he made a telling analysis of the measure. Taking up project after project, he quoted from the engineering reports to show conditions surrounding them and the pitifully small volume of traffic that could possibly be benefited by enterprises for which hundreds of thousands of dollars were asked, demonstrating that the measure as a whole plainly aimed to distribute a lot of Federal money as equitably as might be, rather than to devote it to work that would be of substantial value.

Mr. Frear's speech demonstrated that he had made a great study of the subject. He followed it on May 4 by introducing a concurrent resolution which probably will be duly smothered for the present, but which contains an idea that is certain before many years to be adopted.

This Frear resolution sets forth that, while these appropriations have increased 500 per cent per annum, navigation on the rivers has fallen off 80 per cent. Projects now adopted, or contained in the pending bill, which is expected to pass, involve a future expenditure of $305,000,000.
Surveys are authorized for projects costing another $100,000,000, and other huge projects are now being insistently advocated which would involve billions. Mr. Frear declares that many millions have been spent in the past on rivers to benefit navigation, and that these projects have since been abandoned as of no value,
and represent dead loss.

In short, Mr. Frear presents a startling indictment of the whole river improvement program; insists that most of the money spent on it—several hundreds of millions—in the past has been wasted, and that, unless there is a change of policy, billions more will go the same way, and he winds up his resolution with a direction that the interstate commerce commission shall investigate and report on the whole subject.

Among other things, he would have the commission find out how much value there is in the $305,000,000 worth of projects to which the Government is now committed; what virtue there is in the billions of dollars' worth of additional projects that are insistently demanded, and what are the organizations, interests, etc., boosting them. He wants to know about paid lobbyists in this connection, and requires detailed information as to all river and harbor improvements begun and afterward abandoned, and how much this waste has aggregated. He asks the commission to learn whether it is true that certain privately owned canals,
whose stock is practically worthless,
are being unloaded on the government for huge figures, and why. He

Most Skin Trouble Readily Overcome

The Active Principle of a Famous Remedy Works Wonders.

Many people have marveled the way
S. S. S. overcomes skin troubles. The explanation is the fact that S. S. S. works in the blood and the blood is really a most intricate and extraordinary mass of arteries and veins.

When you come to realize that the skin and the flesh beneath are composed of a network of tiny blood vessels you solve the mystery.

There are wonderful medicinal properties in S. S. S. that follow the course of the blood streams just as naturally as the most nourishing food elements.

It is really a remarkable remedy. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment. And the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food.

Not a drop of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and just insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice and counsel upon any matter concerning the blood and skin, write to the Medical Department, The Swift Specific Co., 529 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.
Do not allow some zealous clerk's discourage over something "just as good" as
S. S. S. to fool you with the same old mineral drugs. Beware of all substitutes.
Insist upon S. S. S.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Rural Lament
You kin talk about your railroads.
With your engines all you like,
Scarin' all the farmers' horses
As they amble down the pike.

You kin talk about corn shredders
That are choppin' off our arms
And the thrashers that are spreadin'
Deep dismay on many farms.
You kin talk of all the troubles
That our peace and quiet mar,
But, by jing, about the blameworthy
Is the snortin' auto car.

Down the road it comes a-tearin',
Runnin' forty miles an hour,
Till it hits a fence or suthin',
Seekin' what it kin devour.
Then it sends its driver sprawlin'
Out into the country dust,
That's the only time us farmers
Folks a-ridin', any minute.
Is most apt to get a fall;
I can't see no pleasure in it,
Not for nobody at all.

Ain't askeered of traction engines
Or milk wagons or the like
For the old roan mare is used to Seein' 'em come down the pike.
But the honkin', scorchin' devils,
Painted red, or green or pink,
They ain't got no right a-givin'
Us folks heart disease, I think.

When we die we will escape 'em.
Thank the goodness, I've been told,
There will be no snortin' autos
Scorchin' down the streets of gold.

No, indeed, I guess the scorchin'
In the days of future grace
Will be done by them there "shuffers"
In a slightly warmer place.

The Great New Historical Romance

I thought they were all wonderfully foolish, since it was quite manifest to me that there must be some cruel trick afoot to fasten this intruder upon us.

"The lady is very sick," explained
my father. "Luckily your mother is able to care for this little one, or lamity.
God knows what would happen to it."

But I looked upon the two small bundles of pink flesh with anything but a friendly eye; one would be bad enough, but the two would be a ca-
"To be sure, its mother will want it back," said Meg. "Lord love us, but they are sweet to look on!" she added.

And it was quite clear to me that she took a most unseemly interest in the new arrivals.

This saddened me inexpressibly. I felt the whole world—which was my mother, and Meg—had suddenly grown cold to me, and what had I done to merit it? I was just the same as I had ever been; my faults, such as they were, were no more flagrant than formerly, and yet that warm May day was turning very drear, the brightness was going out of it, and I attributed this change to the two little maids who had come most treacherously when I was not prepared to defend my rights, my hitherto undisputed supremacy.

Not wishing to appear uncivil, however, and being resolved to hide my grief behind a manful front, I remained in my mother's room a little time longer, and was on the point of going downstairs with Meg when,
just as we quitted the room, there ran into the hall the strange lady's black-browed woman. Her hair was in disorder about her head and she was beating her breast with her clenched hands and crying aloud, though what she said we could not know; but as we stood gazing at her in astonishment, the French gentleman came running up the stairs and at his heels was Captain Maxwell,
the face of each white as death itself.

Captain Maxwell seized the woman by the arm, and shaking her roughly, bade her hold her peace,
no doubt forgetting in his excitement that she understood nothing of what he was saying, since he spoke in English. There was something horrible in this sudden uproar in that silent house, but the woman appeared to have lost all control of herself;
she regarded neither Captain Maxwell nor the French gentleman. With her clenched hands she continued to beat her breast and cry out. This lasted for a moment, and then the surgeon came from the lady's room.
I heard Captain Maxwell say to the woman:

"Hold your tongue, you jade!
What will your mistress think?"
To which the surgeon, pausing there in the doorway, responded gravely:

"Her mistress will think nothing,
sir; for she is dead."

Instantly Captain Maxwell dropped the woman's arm and fell back a step.

"I feared it might be that!" he muttered huskily, speaking as if to himself.

Ere this, my father had appeared.
He now ordered Meg to take me downstairs, and with the surgeon and the others went into the chamber where the lady lay as though asleep, as he told me later, with no trace of suffering on her face, but wonderfully beautiful with the shadow of a sweet, wistful smile on her lips.

The serving woman did not enter the room then, but stood there in the hall by the door, sobbing aloud, which was pitiful enough to hear, for
I could but think of the terrible isolation of her grief since she could speak of it with neither my mother nor Meg.

The French gentleman and Captain Maxwell very shortly came from the chamber and shut themselves up in my father's study; and some little while afterward as I was passing under the window I heard the Captain say, speaking in English:

"All the same, the wish that the child should be born in Scotland was the maddest folly! And after all, the child's a girl."

As I had no high opinion of girls myself, I thought the better of him for this.

In my father's journal, which is before me as I write, there is ordinary set down among a mass of other matters, such as weddings, christenings, and the like, this brief entry:

"This day, the 20th of May, 1590, there was buried Madame Barras, the French lady," that being the sum total of his knowledge; and thus I suppose it stands to this hour, on the slab of grey stone that marks the spot where the French lady lies, far distant from her brighter France, under the leaden skies of our north country, and in the very shadow of the Pennine hills.

I can still recall the separate events of that day when she was laid to rest. From our vicarage she was borne down the lane, four stout fellows whom my father had got for that purpose carrying the rude coffin the village joiner had made. From the lane the little procession moved out across the meadow where the Roman well is, to the church. After my father walked Captain Maxwell, and the French gentleman, then came their servants and hers; and last of all our Meg, to whose hand I held fast for the very comfort to be had from that living contact.

We entered from the church and found there, waiting us, a small gathering of shy rustics from the fell farms, and half a score of villagers. It was already late afternoon, the long afernoon of our north country, and as we came from the church into the walled-in acre where the dead and some of past generations slept, we could hear the bleat of lambs from distant fields and the cawing of the rooks in the old beeches above the grey stone vicarage. My father read the burial service, and then, as the peaty sods fell with a hollow sound, we turned away. It was over; but the stranger's youth and beauty, to which was speedily added rank and riches, became a tradition in those parts that furnished discussion and conjecture for many a winter's evening long after.

Carried No Samples

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, food expert, tells of a trip he made to a place in Carolina to make a propagandist speech. It goes something like this:
"I checked my bag at the station,
and engaged an old darky hackman to drive me to the hall. He seemed very much worried over my lack of baggage.

"Most every gent what comes here's got something to sell," he said.
"Maybe youse got something to sell, boss?"

"Oh, yes, I told him. I've got something to sell." For a moment he seemed satisfied. But his curiosity got the better of him, and he broke out with another question:

"Whot might dat something be you got to sell, boss?" he asked.

"I thought over it for a while, and decided I should have to give some kind of an answer, so I said: 'I sell wit and wisdom.'"

"The old negro scratched his head and cogitated.

"Well boss," he said, finally, "you is the first man I ever toted what didn't carry no samples."—National

WHAT TO DO FOR NEURALGIA

The one great symptom of neuralgia is pain: the one great cause is lack of nutrition for the nerves, in plain language—starved nerves.

There are two things to do for any form of neuralgia. Apply heat to the affected part to soothe the pain, and feed the nerves by taking a tonic containing the elements needed by them. Heat, as afforded by hot flannel, hot water bags, etc., lulls the inflamed nerves into temporary quiet. It does not cure. Not until the nutrition of the nerves is restored will the inflammation subside.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills furnish to the blood the needed elements and the blood conveys them to the nerves. The only way of getting food or medicine to the nerves is through the blood. Remember that.

Neuralgia is a general term. It means inflammation of a nerve. It is given different names according to the nerve affected. Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve. Application of heat will soothe the pain in all forms of neuralgia and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will correct the condition that caused it.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send you a little book on "Home Treatment of Nervous Disorders" for the asking.

INAUGURATE NEW TONNAGE SYSTEM

Heads of Milwaukee Road Here with Efficiency Expert Explaining New Plan

P. C. Eldridge, assistant general superintendent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul system, J. A. McDonald, superintendent of the La Crosse division, and D. C. Cheney, efficiency expert and tonnage rater in the employ of the Milwaukee road, were on the north side this morning giving instructions to conductors and trainmen in the new equated tonnage system being inaugurated on certain divisions of the road.

Tables for each section of the La Crosse division have been prepared, showing the number of cars of different tonnage which can be best hauled by different types of locomotives. The tables are made out with wheel resistance and friction as a working basis. The more cars in a train, the greater the wheel resistance, and consequently the less gross tonnage hauled, and vice versa. The total tonnage hauled will depend largely on the capacities of the cars.

"SAMSON" IS A FILM TRIUMPH

That interest in the Universal's gripping special feature, "Samson," was strong, was conclusively shown in New York. So many requests from religious bodies to see the film have been received at the Universal offices that it was decided to hold a special morning matinee for the clergymen of Greater New York at the Republic Theater, where the film was being shown. The response to this invitation was surprising and the immediate result has been that three Sunday schools have engaged reservations for the first three days of this week. The clergymen were loud in their praise of the film as a splendid representation of a thrilling story and as an aid to understanding Biblical times and characters. There were ministers of every faith and denomination at the matinee and they were all agreed that "Samson" was performing a real service in thus depicting sacred literature. "Magnificently put on, intensely dramatic, realistic in the extreme, highly reverent, follows the Bible account faithfully," were some of the comments. "A great help in understanding Bible characters, atmosphere, and environment," was the comment of another.

But this is only one phase of the drawing power of "Samson." It is tempting fate to launch a theatrical production during Lent, and even though the religious appeal of "Samson" is strong, it required more than that to explain the popularity of this feature film at the Republic Theater in New York. The general theater-going public adopted "Samson" as a regular attraction, and every night the theater played to as fashionable audiences as it did under the Belasco regime.

The Official Committee of the School Board also saw the film and pronounced it an eminently satisfactory performance for the patronage of the school children of the city.

Engebretsen and Mrs. Clellan Swennes have been appointed a committee to arrange for a celebration to be given by the Vikings of North La Crosse branch No. 6 to be held next Tuesday evening in the Fjelstad hall. AMERICAN WOMAN REFUSES TO LEAVE

Baptist Mission Teacher at Saltillo Won't Desert Her Post Because of Nearing Battle

By N. C. PARKE.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

JUAREZ, Mexico, May 13.—Miss Ida Hays, an American Baptist missionary, is still at the Madero institute, in the western extremity of Saltillo, and will be in grave danger when General Villa attacks that city this week, Rev. W. F. Hatchell, of the Baptist mission here, said today. According to mission officials, Miss Hays not only refused to leave what Villa declared will be the bloodiest battle field of the revolution, but would not go with other non-combatants to the British legation.

Constitutionalist officers here said today that General Venustiano Carranza, who went to Durango to conciliate the Arrieta brothers and obtain their support, is being graciously received.

Fifty carloads of cotton, the property of British growers near Torreón, were released by constitutionalist officials today upon strong representations made by British Consul Myles at El Paso.

BATHHOUSE WILL OCCUPY LEAGUE

The North Side Progressive league will hold their regular monthly meeting this evening in the Rose Street Woodman hall. Several matters of importance will come up for discussion, among them the securing of a public bathhouse for Copeland Park. The question was agitated a month more ago, being received favorably by residents of the north side. Also, the rapping of Copeland park will receive the attention of the league. The recent heavy rains have severely damaged the shore, deep gutters being washed in many places. As the war department some time ago refused to aid in the work on the ground that Black river was not a navigable stream, and therefore not entitled to federal aid, the league will endeavor to find some other way to carry through the work.

PREPARE PROGRAM FOR GRADUATION
 Commencement Week at High School to Begin with Prom on June 5
GRADUATION EXERCISES JUNE 11
 Secretiveness Surrounds the Preparations for Celebration of Class Day

Commencement week, the busiest of the whole year for the high school, will begin on the evening of June 5, when the junior prom will be held. This year the prom will be held at the high school gymnasium.
 The committees in control of the prom follows:
 General arrangements—Roger Lueck, chairman; Mamie Olsen, Marie Olsen, Marcellus Miller, Thomas Roche, Leighton Oyen, Miss Wylie and Miss Cotton.
 Decorations—Roger Lueck, chairman; Marie Esch, Thomas Roche, Florence Young, Sam Anderson, William King and Miss Griffin.
 Invitations—Roger Lueck, chairman; Calverna Linse, Eleanore Cronon and Miss Josten.
 Music—Maynard Barney, Alvin Hackbart, Professors Horton and Kline.
 Refreshments—Blanche Brock, Julia Peterson and Prof. R. C. Puckett.

Baccalaureate Address
 The baccalaureate address will be held on the following Sunday. It has not yet been decided where. On Tuesday evening there will be a "class day." It will be a representation of the things which have impressed the graduating class most, and will consist of different scenes of school life. In regard to other arrangements, the committee in charge has been very secretive and a surprise is supposed to be in store for those who witness the event. Two years ago a similar class day was held. This year's exercises will be open to all who wish to come and will be held in the high school auditorium. The committee consists of Marion Dawson, chairman; Eleanore Schweizer, Raymond Grams, Knut Houck, Georgina Berg, Miss Scottfield and Miss Lena Heideman. The last regular school sessions will be held on June 8. The rest of the week will be devoted to examinations.

Soph Reception on Tenth
 On the tenth the annual sophomore reception will be given the seniors in the old gymnasium. This event is always one of great interest to the graduating class.
 The commencement exercises will be held on the evening of the 11th at the La Crosse theater. The program of the speakers has not been arranged fully as yet but will be announced soon.

The following evening, June 12, the annual alumni banquet and ball will be held. The banquet will be given in the high school lunch rooms, and thereafter the ball will be held in the gymnasium. The committee in charge of this banquet, consisting of Mr. Stephen Martindale, who is the oldest graduate of the high school, as chairman, Howard Jones, Miss Helen Dorset, Miss Grace Gesell and Principal B. E. McCormick, has already completed many of the details of the affair.

The annual gymnasium exhibition will be given by the girls of the high school on the evenings of May 21st and 22nd. About three hundred and seventy-five girls will take part. The exhibition is being superintended by Miss Alma Wylie, girls' physical director.

"Booster" Nearly Ready
 The "Booster Annual" will appear sometime during the next week. This year the annual will contain over a hundred and fifty pages and will contain a number of stories contributed by local high school talent. Pictures of all the graduates will be in the edition and many other interesting cuts.

The first prize in the prize story contest for this edition has been awarded to Roger Lueck, on the story "A Railroad Experience."

Third place was awarded to Gilbert Jacobs on "The Three Roads."

This year the "Booster" has been the most successful and complete of any year since its foundation. A great deal of credit is due to William Walker, the editor in chief. The assistant editor, Herbert Wheaton, and the managing editor, Harold Hirschheimer, also deserve credit. The business end of the paper has been well supported during the past semester by Frank Funk.

IS FINED COST OF 'PHONE CALL
 A fine equivalent to the price of a telephone call from La Crosse to the town of Farmington was today imposed on Joseph Wanless, a juror, for getting his dates mixed.

Wanless was drawn for duty but failed to show up yesterday. The sheriff then called him on the telephone. Wanless appeared in court this morning apologizing for his absence and explaining that he thought court convened today instead of yesterday. Judge Higbee fined him the cost of the sheriff's call for his carelessness.

WON'T HAVE NEW STRIKE BREAKERS

Six Men Deported from the Colorado Strike District by Federal Troops

TO BEGIN SEIZURE LATE TODAY

May Be Hitch in Paying Militia Bills by the Colorado Legislature

TRINIDAD, Col., May 13.—The first step in the enforcement of the president's edict barring new strike-breakers from southern Colorado coal fields was taken at Aguilar today by United States troops under Captain Johnson. Six men, employed to work at the Royal mine of the National Fuel company were deported. They had not worked in the mine prior to the recent violence.

The surrender of arms throughout the strike district continues slowly. Forcible search and seizure will not begin, however, until 5 p. m. today.

DENVER, Col., May 13.—The defeat of the bill in the Colorado legislature to appropriate $1,000,000 to pay the military bills resulting from the southern coal strike was threatened today as the result of the action of the senate last night in voting not to strike out a clause which prevented the military authorities from paying any mine guards or detectives in the ranks of the militia. Progressive leaders of the house denounced the elimination of the clause.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—No strikebreakers will be allowed to man mines in Colorado which are not already in operation. This was stated today by Secretary of War Garrison.

That the mine owners are planning to take this step was the belief of the secretary today, based on an advertisement for men placed in at least one western newspaper. Garrison declared, regardless of the union issue, injection of strikebreakers into a district where there are already many unemployed would undoubtedly excite a conflict.

William Farley and Hywell Davis, conciliators in the Colorado strike, are either in Colorado or on their way there, the labor department stated today.

THINK RABBITT FELL OFF BRIDGE

Aged Viroqua Who Was Found Dead in Creek Wandered Off While Demented Is Theory

Robert Rabbitt, the aged resident of Viroqua, who was found dead near Stoddard Sunday, came to his death by drowning. This is the verdict returned late yesterday afternoon by the jury sitting on the coroner's jury at Viroqua.

The body of Rabbitt, who was 74 years old, was found near a creek a mile from Stoddard by two girls Sunday afternoon. Rabbitt had been missing from his home since April 14 and continued search by Vernon county officials failed to trace the missing man.

The Vernon county coroner today said that papers had been made out during the early part of April for Rabbitt's entrance to the old soldiers' home at Waupaca and that the general belief at Viroqua is that the aged man, while slightly demented, started for Waupaca.

Witnesses testified that they had seen an aged man climb from a box car at Stoddard at about the time Rabbitt was missing. The members of the jury, from further testimony, think that Rabbitt walked from Stoddard to Chaseburg, fell off a bridge near Chaseburg and was drowned. It is believed the body floated down the creek until close to Stoddard where it was thrown upon the bank.

The coroner declared that nobody credits the theory of suicide and all believe that his death was purely accidental.

GOLDEN RULE IS URGED FOR NEWS

LAWRENCE, Kan., May 13.—Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post, in an address to the National Newspaper conference, today urged the editors to apply the golden rule to all newspaper material, news as well as to advertising.

He asserted that in the latest generation of newspapermen there had grown up an amazing and often criminal lack of accuracy in news and advertising. He asserted there had been little deliberate falsification of facts, but the enthusiasm and efforts to make a red hot story often ran away with actual news values.

Richard H. Waldo, advertising manager of Good Housekeeping, told the editors they must be able to tell the general advertiser exactly the kind of people who read their papers so the advertiser could supply copy that exactly fits that class of purchasers.

Irvin Cobb, the New York humorist, urged all country editors to learn to write advertisements.

Roy Howard, president of the United Press, addressed the editors at yesterday's session.

CDD COMPLAINT CAUSES SUICIDE

MILWAUKEE, May 13.—W. J. Vogeler of Cleveland died in the Emergency hospital here today of heart failure after he had made efforts to commit suicide.

Vogeler weighed 350 pounds. He suffered from an ailment that led to insomnia at times and at other times to an unconquerable desire to sleep. Many nights he could not sleep, while at other times he would fall asleep in the dining room or in the midst of a conversation. This condition led to his banishment from the Bismarck hotel here. His landlord found him this morning in his old room preparing to cut his throat. Before he could call the police, Vogeler had suffered an attack of heart failure.

Entirely new wardrobe and setting has been provided, and there will be new music and chorus numbers. The setting, a college campus, was completed late yesterday afternoon in the scene-painting loft of the local theater.

The new company will change its bills Wednesday and Sunday for its entire engagement here. Next Sunday they will present "In Mexico."

DEMAND FACTS OF ALLEGED TORTURE OF U. S. SOLDIER

will bring an immediate clash. Huerta's representatives are known to have instructions to oppose any plan that will not give him a voice in the entire matter. Even though he should agree to quit it is known that Huerta will insist that he is the individual who should designate his successor. The Huertista envoys will, it is understood, maintain that the alleged insult to the American flag is the question which must be first decided. If United States representatives accept this plea, they will be placed in the position of agreeing to arbitrate a question of national honor.

Realization of these facts has caused pessimism over the prospect of successful mediation.

Says Parks Was Captured War department officials were bitter today in their denunciation of General Maas, federal commander

Dares 'em Outside JUAREZ, Mexico, May 13.

13.—Gen. Pablo Gonzales expects to order a final assault on Tampico within a few hours, according to a dispatch received at the constitutionalist headquarters this afternoon. Engagements between the constitutionalists and federalists are occurring hourly, but the rebels have sustained no serious losses thus far, said the dispatch.

General Gonzales sent a message to the federal commander at Tampico, inviting him to come outside the city and fight it out, thus protecting noncombatants. No reply was made to this invitation.

around Vera Cruz. Circumstantial stories have been received telling of torture of the insane private soldier, Parks, and of his death later at the hands of a firing squad.

Although there is no official confirmation of the reported slaying of Parks, General Funston has wired unofficial reports and expressed the belief that they are true. Parks, Funston believes, was maltreated and then shot without even the formality of a drum head court martial. Funston has also reported that he sent a letter to General Maas immediately after Parks' disappearance, notifying the Mexican commander that the soldier was insane and bespeaking humane treatment for him.

For the present, no official action can be taken in the case. Parks entered the Mexican lines in direct defiance of the general order. Until all of the facts regarding his fate can be learned in an official manner the state department cannot even protest to Huerta.

O'Shaughnessy Pessimistic Little light was thrown today on last night's conference between Charge O'Shaughnessy and President Wilson. It is known, however, that O'Shaughnessy told the president he was convinced Huerta would never voluntarily retire. O'Shaughnessy is known to have told the president that he believed a common ground for agreement would be hard to find.

STEPHENSON WILL SUPPORT M'GOVERN

'Uncle Ike' to Quit the Senate at Expiration of Term; Wants to "Get" La Follette

GOVERNOR WON'T AID OWEN

Executive's Contingent Expects Fight All Along the Line with "Bob's" Followers It Is Claimed

Isaac Stephenson will not be a candidate for re-nomination and re-election to the United States senate but instead his support will be given to Gov. Francis E. McGovern, according to a story emanating from Madison and published in the Milwaukee Daily News Tuesday.

"Although the United States senator living at Marinette has not spoken officially on the subject news has reached Madison from authentic sources at Washington of the determination of the senator," says the News. "At the office of the governor nothing is professed to be known in regard to the matter. It can be said, however, that news has reached the ultra La Follette people of Mr. Stephenson's intentions and that it is being taken into consideration in the reckoning. It is said official announcement by Mr. Stephenson of his determination not to run again will be made about July 1."

Is After La Follette

"The reason which has led Mr. Stephenson into a decision to support Gov. McGovern is said to be that he believes the La Follette forces can best be defeated through a movement headed by the governor, and it is declared Senator Stephenson intends to do all in his power to defeat La Follette candidates for office under a belief that he can in this way best strike at Senator La Follette, against whom Senator Stephenson cherishes a bitter political enmity because of the opposition shown by Senator La Follette to the nomination of Senator Stephenson for United States senator in 1908. It is said the senator would like himself to run again, but because of his age has finally listened to his advisers and agreed to retire."

No Aid For Owen The talk that there may be support given by the McGovern people to Attorney General Walter C. Owen for the republican nomination for governor is absolutely without foundation. The McGovern people expect a fight all along the line with the La Follette contingent and believe that every inch of the battleground will be contested. As between Merlino Hull and William H. Hatton as gubernatorial candidate the McGovern people will however, probably remain neutral.

NORMAL PLAYS A HIT

LARGE CROWD OF STUDENTS AND TOWNSPEOPLE WITNESSES A TRIO OF COMEDIES

The three short plays given by the Buskin Dramatic club at the normal last night were a success in every way. A large crowd of students and townspeople came out to witness them. The first play, "When Greek Meets Greek," is the story of two "dyed in the wool" flirts who meet at the country home of a mutual friend. Each determines to outdo the other with the result that they become engaged. It is difficult to sty who was the particular star of this piece as each of the four characters were faultlessly presented.

"A Proposal Under Difficulties" was the next play given and was one of the delights of the evening. It is filled with ludicrous situations well worked out. The laughs were frequent and well deserved throughout the play.

The last of the three plays, "The Workhouse Ward," received the most favorable commendation of the evening. It showed the life of the middle, upper and high class of the Irish people. Two of the male characters were wonderfully well played by Abbie Hawes and Grace Webb. The work of Ruth Palmer as Honour Donohoe was well done.

Following is the cast of characters: "When Greek Meets Greek" Mr. Schofield Orson Morse Tom Aklund Henry Otten Mrs. Schofield Gertrude Buehler Etta Winifred Stella Osborne

"A Proposal Under Difficulties" Robert Yardsley Marcus Byers Jack Barlow Lambert Hansen Dorothy Andrews (a much loved young woman) Grace Hill Jennie Maude Mulock

"The Workhouse Ward" Mike McInerney Abbie Hawes Michael Miscal Grace Webb Honour Donohoe Ruth Palmer

One of the pleasing features of the evening was the music furnished by the normal orchestra.

PETITION FOR USE OF PETTIBONE PARK

To Ask Board for Use of Island for Indian Village to Be Big Event of the Week

MANY WRITE THEY ARE COMING

Mrs. Fanny Lincoln Ford Among Those Anxious to Former Acquaintances; Enthusiasm Great

At a meeting of the general Homecoming, Made in La Crosse and Fourth of July committee last night it was decided to petition the Pettibone Park Board for the use of the park for the Indian village, planned as one of the biggest and most entertaining features of the week.

Some opposition to the use of the park has developed, it is understood, but friends of the plan point out that it is the ideal spot. It is planned to have tepees on the strip of land west of the road and along the shores of the Mississippi. Canoe and pony races, war dances and other events of truly Indian character are planned. Members of the various Wisconsin tribes are enthusiastic over the plan and are anxious to come.

Expect Big Crowds.

Chairman W. F. Goodrich of the Homecoming committee reported great enthusiasm on the part of people in other cities and said that there is every indication that the crowds will be great.

Mrs. Fannie Lincoln Ford is one of the many who have written enthusiastically about the Homecoming and in a letter to Mr. Goodrich says that she wishes no greater pleasure than meeting the old loyal citizens of her former acquaintance.

Many Write Back.

Others who have written in reply to invitations expressing every prospect of coming are:

MILITIA CHIEF IS TRIED FOR MURDER

DENVER, May 13.—Murder, manslaughter and arson charges were preferred against Major P. J. Hamrock, who commanded the Colorado militia participating in the recent battle at Ludlow, in which six strikers, two women and eleven children perished, when today's session of the general court martial called by Adjutant General Chase met at the National guard rifle range near Golden.

As soon as the session opened, Captain Edward Smith, judge advocate, called upon Hamrock to stand up and he then read the three charges against the officer. Hamrock pleaded not guilty, and his case proceeded.

Lieut. Ray Benedict, the first witness testified the battle of Ludlow was started by the strikers after he had fired three bombs to warn other militia companies which might be in the vicinity of impending danger. He described the fight and said at 7:30 p. m. he saw fire break out from one of the tents, adding: "I turned to the men with me and cursed the men who set the fire, not so much for setting the fire as because the burning tents gave away the position of our men."

JUDGE WARNS HE'LL SET ASIDE VERDICT

After listening to the testimony in the case brought against Peter Schindler by his daughter, Anna Zirbes, for wages due for keeping house for her father, Judge E. C. Higbee sent the jury into the hall and then announced to the attorneys that should the jury return a verdict in favor of the plaintiff he would set it aside as a matter of law.

The jury was charged to answer two questions, one, whether any agreement existed and two, the value of her services. Anna Zirbes asks $5 a week for a period of several months.

Both lawyers delivered pleas to the jury regarding the love and respect due a father by a daughter and vice versa.

DEWEY TO CONVENTION

D. C. Dewey, superintendent of the La Crosse Rescue Mission, left today for Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to attend the International Convention of Rescue Missions, which is in session there this week. During his absence services will be held at the mission as usual. Oscar Guthrie will be in charge of the song services, and the following speakers are announced for the remainder of the week: J. C. Eveland, Wednesday night; E. G. Staats, Thursday evening; Rev. H. J. Witherbee, Saturday night; P. M. Brink, Sunday night. Sunday school will be held at the mission on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Nothing will cheer up a homely man more than to tell him he has character in his face.

hen, alias "Moe" Levy, again in to the case. Cohen was the chauffeur who was said to have driven Rose, Vallon and Webber to meet Becker on the vacant lot in Harlem where Rosenthal's doom finally was sealed.

"Did you say anything in the first Becker trial about Cohen driving you to that meeting?" demanded Manton.

Rose could not remember. Manton sparred, blustered, shouted at the immobile witness, but got nothing.

Just before adjournment at 1:00 o'clock, Manton asked Rose whether he had seen recently a negro boy named Marshall. It was testified in the earlier trial that this boy gave Becker a message as the police lieutenant stood with Rose, Webber and Vallon on the street just before the "murder conference."

Rose said he had recently seen a negro boy who he suspected was Marshall, in the office of his book-keeping agent.

Later in the trial it is expected the prosecution will attempt to show by this negro boy that Becker was with the three informers, thus corroborating their stories. The defense was expected to claim that the negro boy has been dug up by Rose to corroborate his own story.

Becker's counsel then turned to Rose's acquaintance with the dead Rosenthal. The witness answers detailed at great length the story of their first acquaintance. Becker, chin in hand, leaned over the counsel table and showed keen interest.

Manton tried to make Rose admit that Rosenthal had forced his expulsion from a gambling club known as the Hesper. But this the witness flatly denied.

Manton then tried to trip the witness on several statements in printed articles purporting to be from Rose's pen, relating to the underworld of New York. He got little satisfaction.

Denies Gamblers' War

Further efforts to show that Levy and Sam Paul, gamblers, gave Rose $300 after the murder of Rosenthal and supposedly in payment therefor, brought a flat denial. Manton's effort to show the killing of Rosenthal was the result of a gamblers' war was temporarily abandoned.

Becker hardly once looked away from his chief accuser. He shifted uneasily in his seat, conferred occasionally in a whisper with Attorney Marshall, who sat beside him, but never once was his iron calm shaken. Mrs. Becker, too, was calm. Only now and then she shot a glance at her husband, but steadily kept her eyes glued on Rose's expression.

CUNNING, COURTESY AND CALM COMBINE TO MAKE O'SHAUGHNESSY REAL DIPLOMAT

Nelson O'Shaughnessy (photographed last week in Washington).

Now that Nelson O'Shaughnessy's mission in Mexico is over, it is agreed by all that he handled the situation in that troubled country for his government as well as it could have been handled. That he possesses an amazing combination of cunning, courtesy and calm is evident, not only from the grateful testimony of American refugees from Mexico, but also from his achievement in getting on comfortably with three successive governments, all bitterly antagonistic to each other.

MICHIGAN FLOOD DAMAGE MILLIONS

Two Are Known Dead and It Is Feared that Others Have Been Victims

FORD PLANT LOSS IS $2,000,000

Factory Remains Idle Today Because of Its Flooded Conditions

DETROIT, Mich., May 13.—Flood damage in Michigan, resulting from the continuous rain fall of the past forty-eight hours, will total millions of dollars, according to today's estimates. Two persons are known to have perished in the storm and it is feared that others may have died. Hundreds of families living in Detroit suburbs were homeless today and thousands of others were marooned in their houses.

The big Ford factories remained idle today because of the flooded condition of the plant, and it is probable that operations cannot be resumed before Friday. The property, wage and product loss, resulting from the Ford suspension, was estimated today at more than $2,000,000.

KITTANNING, Pa., May 13.—Every man available was put to work early this morning to help this place recover from extensive damage inflicted by a terrific storm which swept the valley last night. Loss of life and injuries accompanied the wreckage of two big plants, the destruction of a number of homes and the uprooting of trees and telephone poles with a loss of $250,000.

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Get an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and heal skin eruptions right up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-Sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destrorying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It is not unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.

HAT GETS OLSON TROUBLE IN COURT

Ole Olson, a La Crosse county farmer, drifted into the circuit court room this morning and without the formality of removing his hat started conversation with one of the attorneys.

An instant later he was ushered to the front of the room by Sheriff John Weber at the order of the court.

"Do you realize that you are in a court room?" queried Judge Higbee.

Olson replied in the affirmative. "Well, why did you not remove your hat?" he questioned. "I was talking to a lawyer," answered Olson, "and I forgot."

After being admonished by the judge Olson turned and made for the doorway at the same time instinctively replacing his hat on his head, but almost instantly grabbing for the offending headgear.

Once again before reaching the doorway, Olson in nervous trepidation placed his hat on his head and then remembering, removed it immediately. He finally reached the door without further incurring the displeasure of the court and once safely on the outside, jammed his hat down over his eyes and hurried from the building.

years for light, too, as to the extent of the property values that would be benefited by certain great river improvements that are urged; and he wants to be informed why states and cities along the Mississippi, for instance, should not pay a big slice of the expense for flood protection and the like, of which they would be the beneficiaries.

In short, Mr. Frear has cut out for the Interstate Commerce Commission a job which it couldn't possibly handle, and for which it has no possible equipment; but, none the less, a job that very decidedly ought to be attended to. It should be given, not to the Interstate Commerce Commission, but to some other body. Perhaps the Department of Commerce is the right authority. Anyhow, the broad investigation that Mr. Frear wants is demanded by the enlightened sentiment of the whole country.

We have spent hundreds of millions on our waterways; several times as much, for instance, as Germany has spent on hers. Yet at the end what do we see? Germany has restored a vast and fast-increasing traffic to her rivers; we have let the traffic be driven from our rivers. Germany has got immense returns from its river investments; we have wasted ours, for the greater part, and are going right ahead to waste more.

Some organization, co-ordination, and practical judgment in the selection of projects would make the river expenditures worth while. They are not worth while now. They are a reproach to every Congress that passes one of these budgets. The Frear crusade will accomplish some good and useful results if Mr. Frear will stick by his guns and keep right on fighting till he gets a hearing.

English Women's Beautiful Complexions

There is no nation in which the women live as sanely as do the English and there is no nation in which the skins are as fair and clear. Under perfect, natural conditions a well balanced life would guarantee a beautiful and healthy skin. But the ordinary social and economic American life of today forces the system to furnish so much vital force for action that nerves, eyes and complexions all suffer. In addition to this strain many women further abuse their skin by covering it with pore-clogging powder instead of doing the wise thing—that is, using a lotion which protects and smoothes, without choking the pores.

The reason complexions suffer so much in summer is because powder does not offer sufficient protection against the hot sun. A plain spumax lotion not only safeguards the skin from the elements, but in itself is a beautifier of great worth. To prepare this lotion at home, dissolve 4 ounces spumax from druggist's in 1/2 pint hot water (or witch hazel) and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This applied to the skin becomes invisible and imparts a velvety softness and dainty tint to a rough, faded skin, relieving that shiny, oily appearance, and its use will insure a clear, lovely complexion.

SLEEPING SLAYER FREED BY JURY

William Keith Acquitted of Murder Charge on Plea of "Somnambulistic Insanity"

CHICAGO, May 13.—William Keith, "dream slayer," who shot Walter Paul on October 16, 1913, today is a free man.

The jury, after five hours' deliberation last night, not only acquitted Keith on the grounds that he was insane at the time the murder was committed, but declared him to be normal now.

Keith's defense was that his wife confessed to relations with Paul and others, and that Thelma, his 16-year-old daughter, was not safe from Paul. Keith was shown to have been a victim of somnambulism since boyhood. The defense contended that the trouble in his home caused Keith to go into a somnambulistic trance, from which he was awakened by the crack of the weapon that killed Paul.

FADS AND FANCIES OF FASHION

VERILY and indeed is this a season of fascination. Every week and almost every day, there appears something new and something interesting, if not radically novel, at least a new development, and there are so many variations in present fashions that monotony seems impossible. Walking down the Avenue today, one is impressed with the exquisite daintiness of the gowns exploited for the coming summer and in the really artistic color combinations that the best dealers are showing.

Also there is very marked evidence of the tendency toward the increasing fullness in the skirts and there are many long full tunics to be seen. Blouse garnitures are universal, too, and there is altogether an almost bewildering variety spread before the looker-on. Since the early date of Easter means a long spring season and, since also the dance brings a constant and increasing demand for evening and elaborate afternoon costumes, gowns of light colored silks and of net and the like are of especial interest.

Undoubtedly, taffeta is the silk of the hour and for the bouffant skirts and the bustle skirts, they are exceedingly well liked, for it is really ideal for such costumes. A very fascinating dancing gown of real canary colored taffeta is trimmed with bows of old blue velvet ribbon in a way that is a real delight. That particular shade of blue and that particular shade of yellow are perfect in contrast and it appears frequently enough to make one realize how quick the designers have been to recognize the fact. The taffeta gown mentioned is softened by a bodice of soft, creamy lace and the same color effect is to be found utilized in other ways. A really beautiful costume available for dances or dinner or any evening occasion consists of flounces of cream lace and net over a foundation of canary colored silk. There are two flounces of lace with a flounce of net between and the net flounce is finished with a plaiting on the edge of which is a shirring of narrow blue ribbon. The waist is net veiled with lace flouncing falling over the shoulders and the V-shaped neck is outlined with pearl beads but on the short sleeves appear ruffles of the net trimmed with blue ribbon and the entire girdle is of the blue. We all know the beauty of the Continental costume with its buff and blue and an exceedingly handsome afternoon costume is made of buff with trimming of the blue that harmonizes so perfectly therewith. Without question, this is a season of much color and of some daring color, often of color that is more bizarre than beautiful, but such effects as those mentioned possess real beauty and, happily, they are found more often than any other sort.

Undoubtedly short coats prevail for the spring but, nevertheless, there is something of a tendency to the genuine or slightly modified Napoleon model and that model of plain colored material worn over a striped skirt always makes a good effect. A very beautiful street suit of the sort bearing the name of Premet shows the coat in the modified style but, nevertheless, preserves the essential characteristics, made of navy blue whipcord while the skirt and trimming are of blue cloth striped with Roman colors but colors of subdued rather than aggressive sort and there is the almost inevitable collar with vestee of white piqué, for the stiff, white collar is the accepted finish and piqué and linen are the favorite materials.

A second costume also showing the Directoire idea combines a coat of dark green cloth finished with velvet collar and a skirt of real Pompadour blue silk, the skirt being shirred at the front and sides and falling in soft folds at the back. Pompadour blue, by the way, is a new shade and a wonderfully beautiful one, being of the sort that is dark enough to wear upon the street and light enough for indoor occasions. Lace is one of the extreme fancies of the season and this dark blue is exquisite both with white and with black lace. This is a wonderfully brilliant day and The Avenue is exceptionally alluring. On the walk down town mentioned above were noted a gown of Pompadour blue taffeta with flounces of black lace and drapery over the blouse and a little later one of the same silk with the flounces and blouse of creamy white lace and both were exquisite but one, as a matter of course, more youthful in effect than the other but both giving an effect of distinction as well as of unquestioned smartness.

Little by little, street costumes give evidence of a tendency toward greater freedom in the skirts. Insets at the seams have been mentioned in previous letters. Later developments show circular flounces arranged in various ways and frequently there are insets in the much flaring tunics worn over the skirts.

THERE never was a season that rendered dressmaking quite so simple and easy as this one. Every blouse that is fashionable is loose. All the skirts take folds and draperies, therefore nothing must be exactly fitted, and the labor of dressmaking is so much reduced that it seems as though any woman could have a variety of gowns with very little cost and very little labor. Then again, we are to wear so many combinations of materials that economy is assured. We all know that the great designers had little thought of anything so practical when the first models were put forth, but nevertheless, the result remains. Look at the illustrations on this page. If you have a garment of last season to remodel, how easy to follow the suggestion of the Roman striped éponge with the plain, or to make the blouse and the trimming of a pretty flowered material to go with the plain, as suggested in another costume. All the skirts remain narrow, and, consequently, those from last year can be used again with the addition of a tunic or trimming. Fashion declares that we may put together taffeta and wool, flowered material with plain, stripes with all plain colors, and she also offers us an almost bewildering variety of colors and effects. Whether she intended it or not, she has certainly played into the hands of women of limited means, and has made it easy for them to be well dressed. There is scarcely any one costume that might not be varied again and again, and, consequently, adapted to the special means of the one you must alter or make. Some of the greatest designers are making combinations that at first thought seemed a little strange, for we are not accustomed to see quite such a vivid colorings used one with the other. When they are well handled and when the costumes are designed by an artist they are very beautiful, but as is always the case with an unusual effect, they require care, and unless you are very sure of your own taste and judgment it is well to keep to quiet colors and simpler effects. Roman stripes are beautiful in combination with almost any dark color, and if the foundation color of your fancy material matches the plain one you will get a good effect whatever the flowered or figured design may be. If you have a two-tone fabric to combine with the plain one, and are a little uncertain how to choose, ravel it out and match one of the threads, for any one of the colors that go to make the fancy effect will be good in contrast. If you want to put green and brown together, study the moss or the lichen that grows on a tree, and see how perfectly the shades harmonize, and if you are thinking of making a very stunning contrast, study a bed of tulips. Nature is always a good guide, and the cleverest designers go to her for inspiration. One of the loveliest gowns ever sent forth from a famous French establishment owes its inspiration to a lovely color effect produced by a glorious sunrise, and each one of us are free to study nature in her various moods and to find color suggestions. The purple of the violet is perfect against the background of its own leaves. If you want to put those colors together bear that fact in mind. White and black can be used with everything. Bits of black often enhance any costume especially if its color is at all a brilliant one. All sorts of thin, dainty materials are being used for chemisettes and collars, but white organdy is one of the newest and most fashionable. Suppose you were making this costume with the blouse and flounced of flowered silk and the skirt of a plain one, it would be pretty to make the chemisette and the collar of white organdy with stitched edges, and to let the sleeves be of plain silk, or if you do not like the contrasting sleeves, you could make them of the blouse material, with the cuffs only of the plain. But, somehow, somewhere, if you put two materials together you must always obtain the costume idea. No woman wants to go forth with the suggestion of a made-over gown, and, to be correct, the costume idea should be carried out. It is the little touches, the way in which the skirt material is carried onto the waist, that often bring back that result. Just a little bit of trimming frequently gives the suggestion of the idea and does away with the thought of an odd waist, for odd waists are only used for adults and the simplest morning occasions.

One of the gowns in this group shows a most effective treatment of Roman striped silk with a plain taffeta. Stripes of really brilliant color are arranged on a brown background and the taffeta is brown, so that there is perfect harmony and the color effect is beautiful without being garish or over bright. The skirt is just a plain one in three pieces, but with circular ruffles that give a tunic effect and produce the breadth over the hips that we must have. If you were making an entire gown of taffeta or of blue serge it would be smart to make just the collar, cuffs and girdle of the Roman stripes, and you can get these stripes in ribbon as well as in silk so that it is, easy to use touches of bright color on a plain gown. The silk costume is one of the very useful kind. It is not too dressy to be worn to the morning dance, for we dance all hours just now, and it is quite elaborate enough for the afternoon affair, and every woman knows of what value a gown of this sort really is. These are times of much activity. One must go here and there and do perhaps a dozen things in a single day. To be able to dress in the morning and feel that the costume is correct until dinner time is a great boon, and the silk gown fills just such a need. If you are in need of something plain, you can carry out the same idea in serge in place of the taffeta with trimming of taffeta, and blue serge with black taffeta would be exceedingly practical and exceedingly handsome, or brown serge with brown taffeta. As we started out by saying there is almost no limit to the possibilities of any costume this spring, for you can make different effects by the use of different combinations of colors and materials, and one of the most interesting features of present fashions is to be found in the way the same design is used for simple materials and for handsome ones. This particular gown, and, indeed, any one of those shown on this page, can be made from handsome silk to be very dressy, or from plain serge or crêpe to be pretty and practical and useful—in fact, if the color effect and material are changed it requires an expert to discover that fundamentally the designs are the same. To the casual observer the whole costume would be different. Who but the woman who made it would think that the gown of moiré with plain silk shown on another figure is made after the same pattern as one with blouse and tunic of flowered crêpe and skirt of plain taffeta with the little vest portion of the same silk as the skirt and the collar and cuffs of white organdie, yet you could make the other costume from the model as well as the one illustrated and it would be just as fashionable. Before many weeks it will be time to think of summer clothes and the linens are beautiful. One of the newest shows a brocade effect, and brocade linen with plain would make an exceedingly handsome costume, while one could go on indefinitely making suggestions.

There is a very pretty effect obtained by the combination of the dotted foulard with plain that is shown on another figure. You think of this as an entire costume, and such it is, but the blouse makes a very good model for the odd waists that we must all have to wear with coat suits. When used for this purpose it can be made from voile, crêpe de chine or any such material. One of the prettiest fancies of the spring is for the blouse of white with trimming of color. This would be charming of white with collar and revers of yellow, cerise or some such color, or, if you like, you could use real emerald green, for all the vivid shades are in fashion, and it only becomes a question of selecting one that is becoming and suits your own need. Suppose you have a spring suit of brown, what a pretty effect the blouse would make of white with real yellow for the collar and cuffs; or you could make it of brown crêpe de chine with yellow for the trimming and yet the costume effect. Any clever woman who thinks it out can evolve numberless suggestions for any single model, and any one who is alert can find trimming material to harmonize with any other. It is really a wonderful spring when we study it from all these points of view.

HINTS FOR THE HOME NEEDLE WOMEN

A PRETTY DESIGN FOR A CENTER PIECE.

THE scalloped edge is to be padded and button-holed. The baskets and flowers, can be worked in any preferred colors, but brown for the baskets, green for the stems and leaves and shades of red for the flowers give a good result.

To pad the scalloped edge either work chain stitch between the lines, heavier at the center of the scallops and narrower at the points, or apply two or more strands over the center of the stamped pattern keeping within the lines. Tack here and there in couching fashion. Gather the threads closely at each point of the scallops and then proceed to button-hole closely over this foundation.

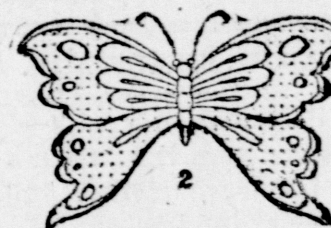

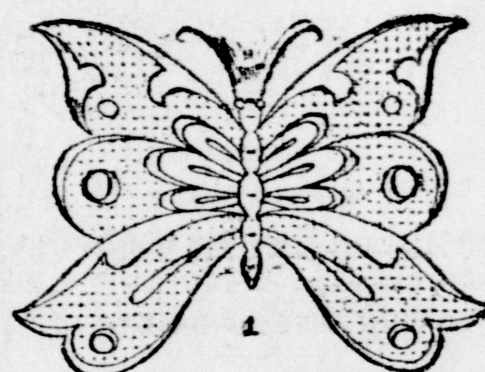

No. 799. Design for embroidering a center cloth nineteen inches in diameter in cross stitch style.

BUTTERFLIES SUITABLE FOR A DRESS

THE bodies of the butterflies and the edges are to be worked in solid embroidery, the dots and ovals that indicate the markings can be worked in solid embroidery or covered with jewels; the dots can be utilized for a punched work background, for French knots or for tiny beads or jewels.

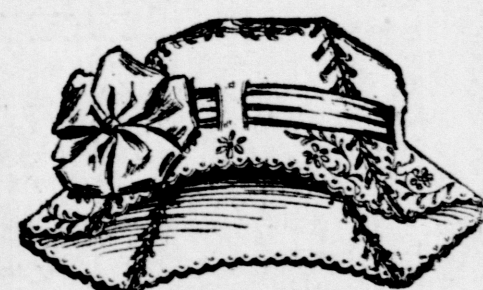

Use embroidery silk or cotton in any preferred colors.

No. 781. Design for embroidering butterflies suitable for dress and waist garniture and decorative purposes.

FOR THE CHILD'S SUMMER DRESS

THE scalloped edges are to be padded and button-holed. The flowers, leaves and dots may be worked solidly or as eyelets. The stems are to be outlined.

No. 810. Design for embroidering a child's hat.

To pad continuous scallops, cut a skein of thread and apply two or more strands over the center of the stamped pattern, keeping within the lines, tack here and there in couching style, gathering the threads closely at each point of the scallops, or work chain stitch between the lines, heavier at the centers, lighter at the points. Button-hole closely over the foundation. Make solid embroidery by first darning backward and forward over the stamped figure and then cover closely with over and over stitches, working in the opposite direction from the padding. To outline, take short stitches, keep the needle toward the right and work upward. To make the dots as eyelets, first encircle by running a thread round the outline, pierce with a stiletto and work over and over. To make the leaves and flowers as eyelets, first run a thread round the stamped figure, then cut a slight slit lengthwise and then crosswise of the long openings, push back the material on the wrong side and work closely over and over.

LAUGHED AT ARMY AND WAS ARRESTED

James P. Lee, Musical Comedy Manager, Left Mexico for the United States Shortly After

"Mexico! Do I know anything about Mexico?"

"Say! I know a whole lot more about Mexico than I want. They forced me to get out of there because they were going to fight a battle, and they arrested me twice. I got all the Mexico I wanted."

James P. Lee, manager, owner and star of the Lee Musical company at the Majestic, sighed as he spoke. Plainly his recollections were not pleasant.

"I was at Cananea with this company just when Pascual Orozco was the most active in the north against Madero. That was in the winter of 1912—just before Felix Diaz and Huerta captured Mexico City and assassinated the president. They were having lively times in the north, and there was most trouble right around Cananea."

"The day I left, having cancelled all my Mexican bookings even though I was doing good business, they were scheduled to have a battle. They didn't have it that day, but the next, but we saw considerable skirmishing as we came through on the train from Cananea to Naco."

"Well, I was going to tell you about the arrests. They pinched me the first time in Naco, just after I crossed the border. They charged me with white slavery. What do you think of that? Of course, all they wanted was that I should come across to the authorities, but I was a bad prospect. I made so much noise to the American consul that they had to let me go, although they made me put up a bond for all the girls in the company, to guarantee that I'd bring 'em all back across the line."

"But the time I was really worried was at Cananea, when they arrested me for laughing at their army. For a fact, that's what they did. I was standing on the street and a company of federal soldiers came along. They were half starved wretches, looking as if they would fall down if you blew at 'em, and as they went by, I said in English:

"'Pige the soldiers.' 'I didn't think they understood English, but the captain halted the men. He strode up to me, mad as a batter, and swelled up like a poisoned pup."

"'Were you laughing at my soldiers?' he said."

"'I was scared, some, so I said: 'Not me.'"

"'But he wasn't satisfied."

"'I believe you were,' he said, and he called a couple of troopers over and ranged them up alongside. Then I did get scared. There was no law, and if I didn't get shot against a stone wall I knew enough about Mexican prisons to know that I didn't want to stay in one. I started to argue, but they began to march me off."

"Just then a Mexican lawyer, who was a power in that community, came along. He knew me, and he asked the captain what I had done. The captain told him, and the lawyer told him to let me go. The captain hated to do it, but the lawyer had a lot of pull with the administration, so he let me go."

"And the next day I bought tickets back to the states."

"No more Mexico for me. I like to laugh without being pinched."

He's Heard 'Em All

"They tell me that your small boy says some unusually clever things."

"Yes, yes. Did you hear his latest?"

"Sure."

"Why, you never met him."

"True. But I've met a lot of dotting fathers who in variably tell the same old tales."

HELP POOR BABIES

CHICAGO, May 12. — With fifty prominent business men, superintending the canvassing of the Loop district for funds, efforts were started today to collect $110,000 to establish seven additional relief stations in Chicago for the welfare of babies of the poor.

SHEBOYGAN CHEESE BOARD ASKS PROBE

United States Inquiry Into Methods of Sale of Products Is Demanded in Resolution

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 13.—The Sheboygan call board, which with the Plymouth board has been alleged to form a cheese trust, unanimously adopted resolutions asking a federal probe of the alleged trust.

The resolutions are in the form of a petition to the United States government, and it is understood were adopted in answer to the charges alleged to have been made by Ex-Senator Henry Krumrey of Plymouth and Dr. Charles McCarthy of Madison that the two boards form a trust for the sale of cheese and thus control the market prices.

For years Sheboygan county has led the world in the production of cheese and the greater part of it has been sold on the Sheboygan and Plymouth call boards until this spring. Three years ago former Senator Henry Krumrey started a fight against the methods on the call boards.

About fifty co-operative cheese factories are now in operation and their cheese is handled at a big co-operative warehouse in Plymouth and sold by a salaried salesmen. About seventy-five factories are still selling their product on the call boards.

MANY THINK GOUX'S MACHINE WILL WIN MOTOR SPEEDWAY RACE

Here is a picture of the Peugeot which Jules Goux, winner of the last five-hundred-mile race on the Indianapolis motor speedway, brought over to New York a few days ago for the next Hoosier classic. Many who are interested in automobile classics believe Goux will win the race again this year. The car has been considerably altered from last year, being fitted with a stream line body, underslung springs, American shock absorbers and special English tires. In addition it has had its motor set farther back and the left-hand frame member filled with lead, to give it added stability rounding turns.

LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS HURT OR YOU'RE BACKACHY AND RHEUMATIC

Meat forms uric acid which clogs kidneys; causes Rheumatism and irritates Bladder.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent, Chas. A. Benschlag, Druggist, 508 Main street.

MANY ENTER FOR APPLETON MEET

APPLETON, Wis., May 13.—In spite of the fact that the spring in this section has not been conducive to outdoor athletic training, there is every reason to believe that the fourteenth annual field and track meet to be held on the Lawrence college athletic field next Saturday will be as big as in former years.

Nearly a hundred athletes are already entered and nearly a dozen schools have agreed to send a team, but have not indicated how many men will represent them.

The schools that have entered and have forwarded entry fees for their men follow: Wausau, 14 athletes; Oshkosh, 10; Appleton, 14; Manawa, 5; Fond du Lac, 14; Neenah, 4; Merrill, 8; Shawano, 8; Sheboygan, 5; Deperre, 4; Hortonville, Manitowoc, Antigo, Grand Rapids, Menasha, Oconto, Kaukauna, Marinette and Sturgeon Bay have indicated they will have representation in the meet, but have not sent in the number of men to comprise their teams.

FACULTY JUMPS ON CHICAGO ATHLETES

CHICAGO, May 13.—Although absolving Coach A. A. Staggs of all blame, an editorial in the University of Chicago Magazine, edited by the faculty and issued today, severely jumped onto the Midway basketball players for roughness. It asked that "dirty playing" be stamped out.

"The Chicago team was notable in being composed entirely of football players, who were inured to hard knocks. More than one player seemed to have been neatly tripped or interfered with as he was about to throw a basket. Whether Chicago was worse than its opponents is questionable."

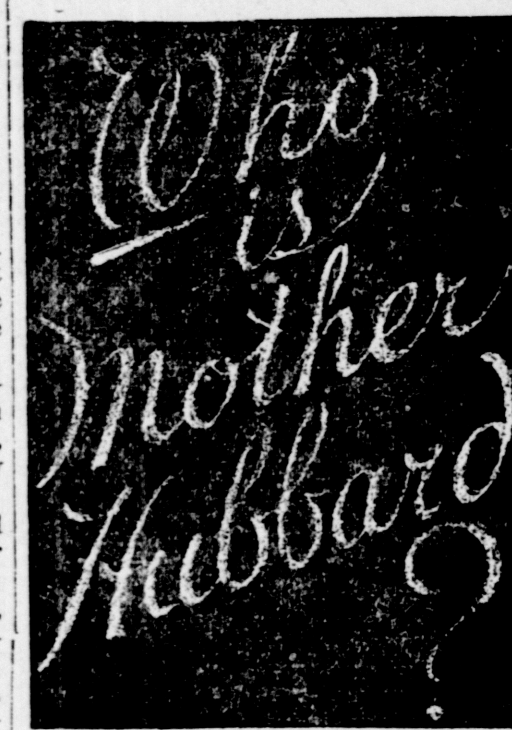

REDS ARE READY TO ABANDON SHIP

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 13.—Seven Reds have agreed to jump to the St. Louis and Pittsburgh Federals if the decision in the "Chief" Johnson case is favorable to the Kansas City Packers, according to a story printed today by the St. Louis Republic. Decision in the Johnson case is expected Thursday or Friday.

Managers Brown and Oakes had a long conference with the Cincinnati players last Friday night at the Buckingham hotel and arranged the big flop, states the Republic.

The names of the seven were not mentioned.

There seems to be no closed season for shooting of New York mayors.

Philadelphia, 4; Cleveland, 12.
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 13.—Cleveland easily defeated the Athletics in the first game of their eastern trip yesterday, 12 to 4. Poor fielding combined with heavy hitting enabled the Naps to roll up their large score. Jackson's batting was a feature, the slugger getting four hits out of five times up. Mitchell held the champions safe, Murphy being the only local who could solve him.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Senators won a lucky game from the White Sox in their first clash this season, 3 to 2. Lord's failure to cover third in the sixth let in one Washingtonian run and Bodie's misjudging Milan's fly in the eighth, which thereby made for a homer, tallied another unearned score.

BOSTON, May 13.—Despite a cold wind and intermittent showers, George Foster pitched a great game here yesterday and had little trouble shutting out the St. Louis Browns. The Red Sox rolled up seven runs off Taylor and Baumgardner. Neither pitcher was hit very hard but their wildness combined with loose fielding aided the Sox in scoring.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Covaleskie's fine twirling and Cobb's timely double in the first inning enabled the Detroit Tigers to shut out the Yankees in the opener here yesterday afternoon. HIGH AND Y WILL HOLD TRACK MEET

First Dual Meet of Season Scheduled for Saturday; Four Entered for the State Track Meet

The high school coach expects to send a very strong track team against the Y. M. C. A. in the dual meet which will be held next Saturday.

The team which will represent La Crosse at the state meet consists of the following men: Harold Taylor, who will represent La Crosse in the shotput, hammer throw and discus throw; Walter Reget, who will compete in the high jump and the running broad jump; Leonard Adair, who will also compete in the high jump, and Manuel Stupka, who will take part in the 220 yard hurdles and in the running broad jump. The records made by these men in the meet which was held last Saturday were good and Coach Horn expects that they will show up to much better advantage at Madison.

On the thirteenth of this month there will be a meet held in this city under the auspices of the normal school. The high school will enter a strong team and have great hopes of carrying off the prizes.

On June fifth the annual triangular city meet will be held between the high school, the normal and the Y. M. C. A.

EDDIE WALSH IS A BACK NUMBER

PITTSBURG, May 13.—Edward Walsh is far from being the Walsh of old. This was shown Monday when the big star of former days tested his arm against Clarke's National league leaders in an exhibition game that the White Sox lost 7 to 2.

Walsh had nothing of his former cunning. It was his first start against a real foe for nearly a year, and it took only a few batters to convince him of his condition. The Pirates jumped on him at the outset and in four innings forced him to cover under an avalanche of eleven hits and seven runs.

The Moose did not show the free and easy motion that marked his work before his arm went back on him last spring. He appeared afraid to let his wing swing out.

COBB WOULD BE A FED SAYS WEEGHMAN

CHICAGO, May 13.—"I don't know anything about any deal with Ty Cobb," said Charles Weeghman, president of the Chicago Federal league club, on Tuesday, when asked about a rumor that the Georgian was ready to jump to Weeghman's team. "I don't think Joe Tinker does, either, but I'd be tickled to death to get him."

Weeghman said that while no negotiations are under way with Cobb, he believed Cobb now wishes he was a Federal, and added: "I wish so, too."

"That's the way things stand now," concluded Weeghman. "You can't tell what might grow out of it."

ENGLISH POLOISTS NOT IN U. S. CLASS

LONDON, May 13.—The final chapter in the upheaval which resulted from the efforts of Lord Wimborne to form a polo team to challenge for the international cup was expected to be written today. Wimborne announced that he would appear before the Hurlingham committee this afternoon and formally state his inability to assemble a suitable team to play the Meadowbrook four in the United States next month. The committee in whose name the challenge was sent to America, was then to go into executive session when it was expected steps to withdraw the challenge would be taken.

KENNA COUGHLIN MACHINE BROKEN

CHICAGO, May 13.—"Aw, it's just a bluff," said "Hinky Dink" Kenna to "Bathhouse John" Coughlin, associate overlord, of the notorious First ward of Chicago, in commenting today upon the removal of 135 election judges and clerks in their ward, late yesterday, by order of County Judge John E. Owens.

"Owens ain't no saint by a long shot," reflected Hinky Dink. "He just wants to throw a scare into the other wards and put in Owens' judges and clerks."

But Judge Owens says otherwise.

He explained that the action was taken as the result of investigations under way of the aldermanic election in April when Miss Marion Drane, progressive candidate for alderman, was defeated by the Bath.

"The Kenna-Coughlin machine was junked in accordance with a plan to clean up the vice district," said Judge Owens. "A woman election official will be named for each of the 37 precincts in the ward."

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Tennis for 1914 looks to be more popular than ever. Many are finding it a great way to reduce while others are content to pose around and bend rapturous gazes on the lovely tennis girls.

SUMMER STOCK AT LA CROSSE THEATER

An enthusiastic audience greeted the Obrecht Stock Co. last night at the La Crosse Theater when "Girl of His Dreams" was presented. The play has a likable story and the different players were greeted with many rounds of applause. The gowns worn by the ladies of the company are equal to those of a dollar attraction. Misses Nell and Jule Obrecht in their musical stunt between acts are up to the second. The ladies handle the trumpets in an artistic manner. Tomorrow night the company presents "The New School Teacher," a play in four acts with Miss Nell Obrecht in the title role.

"Excellent Tonic"

MRS. S. A. WEIR,
827 W. 15th St., Pueblo, Col.

"Peruna is an excellent tonic for the weakness that follows grip. If everybody could have a bottle or two of Peruna after they have had grip they would get well a great deal sooner than they usually do."

"There is no better medicine in the world for colds and grip than Peruna. One bottle did more to relieve me of a bad cold and case of grip than any remedies that I have ever taken."

Other things being equal, the ready-to-take Medicine is the cheaper. On this phase of the subject Mrs. Weir says:

"I am a widow with a very small income, and have to look to every penny very closely. Under these circumstances your medicine is a god-send to me. One bottle of Peruna has accomplished for me more than an expensive course of treatment of any other sort. Of this I feel sure. As a matter of economy every one ought to have a bottle of Peruna in the house."

"I Speak from Experience."

THOMPSON RESIGNS DIVORCE COUNSEL

James Thompson, divorce counsel since the law creating the office was passed in 1909, yesterday tendered his resignation to Circuit Judge E. C. Higbee. A desire to take divorce cases if he sees fit prompted the resignation. During his term Mr. Thompson has made an enviable record for discouraging separations and soothing differences that threatened to bring men and women into the divorce court.
